Children's Discovery Museum is Taking Applications for Artist-in-Residence Program

Local artists can help spark the next generation of creatives by joining the team at Children's Discovery Museum of San Jose where art and creative expression are a key part of every child's education and development. Applications for the museum's artist-in-residence program are now open through June 1, 2025.

Artists will be inspired to use their imagination and talent to help youngsters draw, paint, sculpt, and create in a 17-18 week artist-in-residence program in the museum's LeRoy Neiman Art Studio. The selected artist will receive $1,700-$2,125 a month, plus a stipend for art supplies.

Artists will be tasked with creating and facilitating monthly hands-on art programs for children of all ages on the weekends. The artists will have the opportunity to display their own artwork in the Museum's art gallery and share their style and creative process with Bay Area families. Each artist will receive promotion on the museum's marketing channels and a portfolio of their museum work in photos and video to take with them after their residency is complete.

About Children's Discovery Museum of San Jose

Kids lead the way at Children's Discovery Museum of San Jose, exploring and discovering through open-ended, play-based learning. More than 150 hands-on exhibits and programs in sciences, humanities, arts, nature, and health spark curiosity and ignite family fun where children build life skills in creative and critical thinking, problem solving, and confidence. The nonprofit celebrates people and diverse cultures, creates authentic connections, and builds global understanding.

Welcoming more than 10 million visitors since 1990, the award-winning museum inspires creativity, curiosity, and lifelong learning inside the stunning 50,000 square foot purple building designed by the late world renowned Mexico City architect Ricardo Legoretta, and outside in the half-acre nature space.
